People who don't know what to say either talk all the time or not at all.

NOW-NOW-NOW

"Here, kid, sing this!" And so the kid, age 5, sang, stood up in front of those people and sang.

"Here, kid, read this!" And the kid started his first French book, age 9.

"Here, kid, debate this!" And the kid argued whether water or rock came first, age 12.

"Here, kid, hit that ball!" And the kid popped a tennis ball, age 12.

"Here, kid, let me read that story!" And the kid turned loose his first short story, age 12.

"Hey, kid, you know what? You musta been born 50 years old." Maybe, like the incredible Jack Benny, only 39.

And this kid learned, maybe knew in the marrow of his bones that people spouting judgments, opinions, absolutes among other things were the least judicial, absolute, though opinionated of all people.

And none of the three is anything a man can be decisive about.

Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works will reduce primary aluminum production by about four percent early this week. The plant's metal production would be decreased by about 11,000 tons of its 286,000 ton annual capacity, according to Fred P. Bergeron, Texas Area Manager. Alcoa said the cutback will affect about 60 employees.

"We hope this curtailment will be temporary in nature, although at the moment we do not know the duration," Bergeron said.

"Production cutbacks and resulting layoffs have been announced by many aluminum producers around the country the last month, including a 46,000 ton reduction at Alcoa's Point Comfort Operations," Bergeron said. The plant, which employs over 1,700 is facing its first reduction since 1972.

Bergeron said no further layoffs are planned at this time, but the layoffs are for an indefinite period. The layoffs will be in accordance with the company's labor agreements with the United Steelworkers of America.

Although the plant started the year 1973 with three of its eight potlines idle, the three were all reactivated in January, February, and April, and the plant has been at full capacity production since.

The year 1974 was a record one for production at Rockdale Works, according to a year-end report from Bergeron.

"Even with a softening of the nation's economy that triggered an easing of aluminum demand in late 1974, our Central Texas facility closed the year on a strong note and registered a record 12-month period of metal production and shipments," Bergeron said. "Equally significant, prices were strong and real progress was made toward an adequate return on invested capital."

Bergeron noted that company wages and salaries climbed to over $30 million, contributing favorably to the Central Texas economy. Purchases of goods and services within the region added another $25 million.

Alcoa remained the area's largest taxpayer, shelling out over $900,000 in city, school, county, and state taxes.

Second Pre-Trial Hearing Held For Jim Trigg

A pre-trial hearing was held Wednesday in 20th District Court for Jim Jones Trigg of Gause, charged with the murder of Richard Lee Freeman in February of last year.

Trigg's trial is set for January 14. In the pre-trial hearing a motion to suppress certain evidence and preliminary motions regarding evidence were presented by Roy Q. Minton, attorney for the defendant, and these were ruled on by Judge W. C. Wallace. And the court also set out procedures to be followed in the trial.

Judge Wallace also ruled on search warrants that were obtained by law officers during their investigation of the crime last year which Minton had requested in an earlier pre-trial hearing last October.

Wallace did not disclose the rulings as he said it might prejudice a jury.

Trigg will be represented by defense attorneys Roy Q. Minton and Charles Burton of Austin, James Kershaw of Bastrop and John B. Henderson Jr., of Cameron.

Representing the state will be County Attorney Charles C. Smith of Cameron.

Local Woman Rescued From Fall In Well

A local woman was treated for cold and shock at St. Edward Hospital Thursday morning after being rescued from a well into which she had fallen early that morning.

Mrs. Sam Phillips, 61, was discovered by her daughter, Barbara Ann, about 7:25 a.m. in the well in back of her home at 12 and Nolan. She told hospital officials she had fallen in the well about 5 a.m. after she lost her balance.

Cameron volunteer firemen were called to the scene and used a wrecker to lower Army Sgt. Dwayne Goldsby into the well to raise the woman up.

She was taken to the hospital unconscious, in a state of cold and shock, but was reported later in good condition.

SPECIAL AWARD was presented to Florence Meissner, TAP coordinator and director of the Milam County Chapter of the March of Dimes by Arthur Galloway, national advisor, at Dallas recently. The award was for youth activities during the 1974 MOD campaign. Milam County raised $5,323.86 in 1974, with about a third of that being raised by the teen-age program. The annual Mothers March is set for this week.

Service Held For Young Shooting Victim

Funeral service was held Thursday for a young Rogers boy who was found at his home dead of a single gunshot wound in the neck Tuesday night.

Funeral for Jonathan Paul Allison, 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Brann Allison of Rogers, was held at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Rogers Church of Christ.

Temple Justice of the Peace Eugene McKenzie ruled accidental death after an investigation by Bell County sheriff's officers. McKenzie said the youth's body was found in the Allison home by an older brother. The boy told police Johnathan had been playing with a .22-caliber rifle.

Both parents were working away from the home when the shooting occurred, McKenzie said.

The boy was a second grade pupil in Rogers Elementary School.

Survivors are his parents, two brothers, Raymond and Clark Allison of Rogers; his grandmother, Mrs. Irma Kelly of Cameron; and his grandfather, Johnny Jimerson of Dallas.

Infant Dies After Car Hits Tree

The couple was driving on the road about a half mile north of 22nd St. when their pickup went out of control and struck a tree.

Mrs. Perez is in the intensive care unit at Scott and White Hospital in Temple. Perez is also in the Temple hospital.

But A Victim...

Your Herald warned in the early '60s of the dangers of one-economy cotton and what then happened to it, the crop experiencing varying degrees of modernization since.

But Waco Tribune-Herald's Clark Bolt spells out the 1975 prospect in terms easily explaining why people are looking to grain.

He names four problems: No new markets for cotton developed during 1974, prices leveling below cost of production.

Secondly, production costs will be in the 50-cent range per pound. He reports the cotton producer has a 34.5 cent loan rate and 38-cent target price.

And thirdly, an acreage cut, estimated from 20 to 80 percent, is scheduled for 1975, probably about one-quarter to 40 percent for Central Texas.

Finally, he notes a recession in the economy and depression in textile milling beside a downturn in both foreign and domestic consumption.

We don't enjoy saying "we told you so", but there it is. Signs were clear more than a decade ago cotton had allowed technology in synthetics and promotion to leave the crop in the 19th century.

Loyalists, and there should be some, will say cotton will come back. But not like it was 10 years ago, let alone 50 years ago. There are too many alternative materials and too much long-staple cottons grown in the world.

Even inflated petroleum prices will only slow uses of synthetics derived from oil.

Agriculture will concentrate on food to feed billions of people. Soybeans, like wheat, someday may find enormous value in new strains in the Southwest because beside cheese, shrimp and beef, it is the biggest alternative in protein.

Cotton is a beautiful, traditional victim of the times.

From Old To New...

Things seem to be moving along toward the opening of the county's new jail, with news of obtaining more help for the sheriff department needed to operate the new facility.

Through the local Manpower program, three dispatchers will be hired for operation of the radio communications equipment. Also to be available is a cook for the completely new kitchen in the jail.

Last-minute finishing jobs on lighting, etc. are being taken care of prior to moving into the new jail, which has incorporated all elements of an approved fixture.

The county should soon see signs of occupation as the ancient county jail is given up to plans for a county museum, which will fit admirably into the old structure.

"Low Down"

FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

BILL URGES WAGE, RENT PRICE, PROFIT CONTROLS

Senator Mike Mansfield (Mont.)... Volunteerism is not the answer. Wearing a button on one's lapel is not the answer. Cleaning one's plate is not the answer. Oil shortages alone are not the problem.

"It is not satisfactory to blame it on an international oil conspiracy alone. Assessing blame does not provide a remedy. Getting our domestic house in order through a balanced program of energy conservation and economic restraint will do more to remedy the international recession than the rhetoric of countless international conferences."

"The measure I introduce today should be considered as but one part of an overall program to meet the urgent needs of this nation... By Mr. Mansfield: S. 4174. A bill to stabilize prices, rents, wages, salaries, profits, dividends, interest rates, and other economic transfers. Referred to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

"The President has indicated or at least his predecessor did, that he does not have the authority to impose wage, price, profit, rent, and interest rate controls; that authority expired on April 30, 1974, and is not in operation at the present time."

Senator McClellan. "It has expired. What the Senator is doing then, with his bill, is seeking primarily to renew authority and heretofore been granted to the President, that is discretionary authority."

Senator Mansfield. "The question will be raised, 'Well, we are just trying to pass the buck to the President."

"Not at all. If there was any way in which I could devise a measure which would pass Congress on a substantial basis and which would give Congress co-equal control with the President, I would be delighted to do it. But the only way it can be done, as I see it, is on the basis, because the President is the Chief Executive Officer of our Government, and the designated leader of this Nation."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Thousands of words have been written and hours of TV news time have been devoted to inaction by the President on "controls." The "inaction" was due to the fact that his authority to act had expired on April 30, 1974. The Senator's bill, if passed, would renew that authority. The "buck" is passed to the President.

Site Of Monitor Preserved As Sanctuary

The United States will dedicate its first National Marine Sanctuary, 16 miles off Cape Hatteras, in January. Seamen may think "sanctuary" an odd term to apply to the storm-tossed currents around Hatteras, but the site marks the final resting place of the USS Monitor and 16 crewmen lost when an Atlantic gale sank the ironclad 122 years ago.

In the January National Geographic, John G. Newton, the Duke University scientist who found the Monitor in 220 feet of water on August 27, 1973, tell how the historic wreck was located after more than a century.

A special fold-out page in the magazine contains a mosaic of hundreds of underwater photographs, pieced together by United States Navy technicians to form a complete view of the shattered warship lying upside down on the ocean floor. Nearly Eluded Searchers

The Duke University research ship, Eastward, engaged in a submarine geological survey and a search for the Monitor, nearly sailed past the wreck, Mr. Newton relates.

The scientists, who included Dr. Harold Edgerton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Robert Sheridan of the University of Delaware, and Gordon P. Watts, North Carolina state archeologist, wasted three days probing what they thought to be the Monitor. It proved to be a sunken trawler whose curved wheelhouse resembled the circular gun turret of the ironclad.

When the search was resumed, Eastward's sonar picked up a faint echo that almost went unnoticed. But Fred Kelly, chief of the vessel's oceanographic party, walked past the echo recorder and spotted the slight variation. At his suggestion Eastward reversed course--and its sonar locked onto the Monitor.

Dr. Edgerton, inventor of the strobe light for photography, directed lowering of a side-scan sonar he had helped develop. It showed the clear outline of the wreck, from bow to stern.

"We also discerned a circular structure that could be the Monitor's rotating gun turret," Newton writes.

Identifying Features Filmed
A television camera lowered to the site made videotapes of other distinguishing features: the Monitor's flat-bottomed hull ringed with its protective armor belt, iron deck plates with their clearly visible rivet holes, and the large cylinder that was the turret, protruding from beneath the overturned wreck.

The Eastward's search, supported by grants from the National Geographic Society and the National Science Foundation, and by the United States Army Reserve, which supplied two craft to aid the expedition, successfully pinpointed the Monitor's grave.

But equipment problems prevented the team from photographing all of the wreck, and more identification was sought. A second expedition, supported by the National Geographic Society and the Navy, returned to the site in April 1974 aboard the Alcoa Seaprobe.

The Seaprobe is an oceanographic research vessel equipped with special propellers at its bow and stern, permitting it to hover over a precise spot on the ocean floor like a seagoing helicopter.

A camera pod lowered from a well amidships enabled researchers to obtain more than 2,000 photographs of the Monitor, disclosing additional details that dispelled any doubts about the wreck's identity.

Deck Plates Recovered

Subsequently, Dr. Sheridan brought to the surface some of the Monitor's deck plates and an encrusted two layer disc that when cleaned was revealed as one of the warship's distinctive iron decklight covers.

Newton observes that the depth and treacherous currents at the site rule out attempts to dive to the wreck. And he concludes: "The remains are in such a badly corroded and fragile condition that the ship may never be raised intact."

The Monitor won her place in history on March 9, 1862 when she repulsed the Confederate ironclad, Merrimack, in a duel at Hampton Roads, Virginia, and prevented the South from breaking the crippling Union blockade.

But the Monitor did more: its revolving gun turret forever altered naval warfare. The Merrimack, built on the burned hull of a Union frigate and later renamed the CSS Virginia, had conventional batteries of guns on each side of its deck. This required more maneuvering to bring the cannon on a target. Within a few years, the gun turrets like the Monitor's.

As a National Marine Sanctuary, the famous ship will be safe from underwater vandalism. Any archaeological expeditions to the site in the future will require government permission and will be carefully scrutinized to insure the Monitor's preservation.

SINKING MONITOR is abandoned as crewmen clamber down the turret to a boat from the U.S.S. Rhode Island in an engraving from "Harper's Weekly" of January 24, 1863, less than a month after the ironclad foundered in 220 feet of water during a gale 16 miles off Cape Hatteras.

"Will there be enough electric power this winter in the area served by TP&L?"

Texas Power & Light has the generating plants, the personnel and the lines to produce and deliver all the power its customers will need. One more "ingredient" is essential. Fuel.

All but one of TP&L's plants now in operation were designed and built to use natural gas as a fuel. If it should become necessary for TP&L's suppliers of gas to curtail deliveries, these plants would continue to operate with fuel oil stored at the plants for just such a condition.

A very large generating plant located near Fairfield, Texas uses lignite-coal as a fuel. This plant is supplied with lignite on a continuous basis from deposits near the plant. In addition, there is a reserve stockpile of lignite sufficient to operate the plant at maximum capacity for approximately two weeks.

Seven other lignite-fueled generating units are now under construction. A nuclear-fueled plant is scheduled to begin supplying power in 1980.

TP&L expects to provide adequate electric power to all its customers throughout this winter... and in the future... but we ask your wise use of electricity to help assure that there will be no shortage for anyone.

Ben Milam S&L Group Holds Annual Meeting

By Lloyd Albertson
Ben Milam Savings & Loan Association held its annual stockholders meeting on Wednesday evening, and during the half hour session they heard a report of its financial progress and re-elected the present board of directors. Association Manager Sid Duderstadt announced Thursday.

Directors re-elected to serve during 1975 were E. L. Wied, Robert L. Ellet, W. P. Hogan, Joe Glaser, Dr. Sidney H. Richardson, Dr. George W. Bowman, Lee Roy Caffey, G. F. Blake, H. H. Coffield, and Sid Duderstadt. The same staff of officers were also re-elected and include E. L. Wied, president; Sid Duderstadt, executive vice president and manager; Robert L. Ellet, secretary-treasurer; Calisto Fleming, asst. treasurer; and Irene Epperson, asst. secretary.

Duderstadt, along with his announcement, gave these facts and figures about the institution's financial progress:

Assets of Ben Milam Savings stood at $2,712,082 at year-end 1974. This was a 45 percent increase over a year ago.

During the past year the Association paid a record $129,518 in interest to its savings depositors and added $1,932 to its reserves. Total reserves are now $9,722.

"We are glad to report that 1974 was a year of progress for us," Duderstadt said, "despite the continuation of very serious inflation and general tight money."

Duderstadt said that the key factors during 1974 were the unabated inflation and competition from the private money market instruments and high rate government securities.

"The year 1975 is probably going to get off to a slow start. However, hopefully as the months go by, we will see some concrete improvement in the economy," he said. "Here again the key to the whole situation is how much of a dent we are going to put in the inflation."

Duderstadt said that during 1974 Ben Milam Savings financed 23 homes in and around Cameron and Milam County. In total the Association made more than $550,000 in mortgage loans.

"The rates we are paying now on our savings accounts and certificates of deposit are the highest on record and the highest allowed by law," Duderstadt said.

"While many sought higher rate investments during 1974, the evidence points to the fact that they are coming home to the solid unglamorous-but completely dependable and safe-savings account."

CLAY TERRY

Clay Terry Joins RW

Clay Terry, a 1972 University of Houston graduate and two-year Army veteran, has joined Aluminim Company of America's Rockdale Works as an electrical engineer, according to Jim Lemmez, electrical engineering and power manager.

Italian Nuns Facing Outside

ROME — Italy's 143,000 Roman Catholic nuns are throwing open the shutters of their convents to the outside world. While this is a liberation for many, for others the awakening to contemporary life is traumatic.

Television arials are sprouting on convent roofs. Many congregations subscribe to lay publications. Even in some strict cloisters, where five or more hours each day are spent in silent prayer, nuns now receive occasional lectures on current events.

Most important, the nuns' personal contact with lay people are more frequent. In hospitals and schools they work side by side with lay men and women. And, since most of the Italian orders have modified their habits, and some have adopted normal street clothes, the lay people are treating the nuns more as women than as a separate species of humanity.

Nuns are also becoming more directly involved in community life. There is a trend among younger nuns to live in small flats far from the convent in the working-class areas where they teach or do family counseling.

The problems this awakening creates are indicated in an increase in the numbers of nuns who return to lay life. Almost 350 nuns did so in 1969, but by 1973 the figure had risen to 517.

Only a few months ago three southern Italian nuns left their convent because of what they claimed were harsh conditions and overwork. They have since been resettled in another convent.

In many ways the Italian nun is a forgotten woman. Says a prominent foreign nun in a ranking Vatican post: "I have the feeling that the Italian nuns are more self-effacing than we are. They keep their good qualities hidden and don't put themselves forward. Even some priests treat them as mere auxiliaries." A recent survey by two Italian nuns suggested that many priests as well as laymen consider them "anachronisms."

Where television sets have been installed in convents, the younger, better educated nuns complain that their older sisters "vote only to watch silly programs with pop singers and the like. We want documentaries."

Many nuns speak of a sense of futility. The head of a large psychiatric hospital with a staff of nursing nuns says: "Some seem to feel deprived, including of their sexuality. They sometimes give me the feeling of dams about to burst."

Nuns who do social work run head on into the modern sexual problems of lay people, including abortion and the Pill. They are all opposed to abortion, but a few give the impression of disagreeing with church teaching opposing the Pill.

One of Italy's 500 nuns who are doctors told Reuter: "In individual cases I approve the pill." Said a mother general who is also a doctor: "Birth control is a problem that must be studied."

Reuters International News Briefs

MUNCIE, IND.

Advice of a local health research expert, Dr. Richard Bogg, is to go to Ireland for a healthy life. He spent the past two years studying common acne. He took 128 photos of teenagers in rural Ireland and compared them with photos of teenagers in Muncie and Anderson, Ind. His verdict: acne is much more prevalent among the youth of central Indiana than in Irish rural areas.

MONGOLIA

Communist Mongolia, for long the forgotten nation of Asia, has now won recognition from half the world and hopes to soon exchange ambassadors with the United States. While Mongolia's ties to the Soviet Union are extremely close, it declares it fears Peking's ambitions lie in incorporating it in an expanded Chinese state.

MANILA

The Philippines are slowly rebuilding the centuries old Spanish military fortress of Intramuros, destroyed during bloody fighting between American and Japanese forces in World War II. This walled city with modern Manila is being meticulously recreated stone by stone. Officials say it will take years to complete.

BUENOS AIRES

British yachtsman Tristan Jones has just sailed down river to the Argentine capital on the first ocean-going yacht ever to cross South America from the Pacific Ocean to the Atlantic east coast. "One day I'm going to circumnavigate the world north to south flying a specially built light yacht over the polar icecap with helium balloons," he told Reuter.

PEKING

Early in the morning and late at night, the sound of pounding feet and heavy breathing echoes along Peking's streets and lanes as the city's winter running program goes into its second month. About 1.7 million of the Chinese capital's seven million citizens are taking part in the program this winter -- more than twice as many as last year.

BONN

An estimated 100,000 young West Germans are becoming addicted to alcohol, according to social welfare officials. Often they are children of only 10 to 12 years old. The bottle is circulating in schools and on the streets in towns and rural areas alike.

Ceremony Unites Lafferty-Kunz

Miss Cynthia Dianne Kunz became the bride of Stephen Dale Lafferty, Saturday evening at the First Baptist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kunz, and the bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. James E. Lafferty, father of the groom, performed the double-ring ceremony. Music was provided by Mrs. C. W. Bradbury, organist; and Miss Sharon Seawright of McGregor, soloist. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza fashioned with a high Victorian neck. The empire bodice and bishop sleeves were of hand clipped chantilly and val lace. The lace edged hemline swept to a V-shaped train. Her jeweled lace Juliet cap held a tiered English illusion chantilly lace-edged veil.

She carried a white pearl-inlaid Bible covered with pink daisies and carnations centered with pink roses, and accented with baby's breath.

Loretta Kunz, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Brenda Kunz, sister of the bride, Connie Brashear, Cindy Thweatt, Georgeann Wilkerson, and flower girl was Suzi McGregor. They wore floor length pink tulle mist gowns with bishop sleeves. Cluny lace made the bib front and the hemline featured a ruffled flounce. The attendants carried nosegays of pink daisies accented with baby's breath.

Best man was Jim Lafferty, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Kin Griffin, Tom Ivey, Graig Friemel, and John Hairston. Ring bearer was Ken Smith.

Ushers were Mark Michalka, Ricky Sapp, and Jim Bob Garrett. Pam Brashear registered guests at the wedding.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Carleton and Mr. and Mrs. August Kunz, all of Cameron. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Taylor of Livingston, and Mrs. J. H. Myers of Gouldbusk.

Parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Texan restaurant. The couple plans to make their home in Cameron, after a short trip to South Texas.

The "Personal Planner" books were on display and can now be purchased.

On February 19, St. Monica's will host the Deanery meeting. Members appointed co-chairman of the luncheon for this meeting which include Mrs. Harold Moore, Mrs. J. T. Parma, Mrs. E. D. Perrin, and Mrs. James Richardson.

An announcement was made that Ann Michalka is the new chairman for the Altar and Sanctuary Committee.

The meeting adjourned with a prayer led by Father John Geiser.

St. Edward Class Draws Area Nurses

Sister M. Benedicta, R.N., of St. Edward Hospital today began classes in Coronary Care Training using a course provided by the American Heart Association, Affiliate, Inc.

There are 28 students enrolled for the sessions representing 4 hospitals in the area. This program, loaned by the Heart Association and formed around a RO-COM Multimedia Instructional System, utilized motion pictures, sound filmstrips, audio tapes and textbooks. It is designed to most effectively train Coronary Care personnel to react quickly, decisively, calmly, and accurately to cardiac emergencies.

At present nearly one-third of all patients admitted to hospitals following a heart attack die during their hospitalization, such training as this course provides hopefully will lower this figure.

Local physicians along with several physicians from out of town have been invited to be guest speakers on various related subjects during the presentation of the course.

BEAM TAKES WIN AT MOTOCROSS

The big race of the day at the Cen-tex Motocross of Cameron was the 250cc and Open Experts. The Open Expert race was between Jim Beam, Gary Beam, and David Bearden. The lead was changed earlier in the race, almost every lap but Gary Beam of Waco was the overall victor, followed by his brother Jim Beam, also of Waco. David Bearden of Harker Heights came in third place. Other Experts were Randy Johnson and David Khoury.

The 125cc Experts was a clean sweep for Kurt Janish of Plano, followed by Todd Gore of Dallas, and third was Mac MacCasland of Killeen. David Clark of Richardson was the fourth place winner followed by Jim Workman of Killeen, who finished fifth. Kurt Janish is currently Number 1 in District 20 AMA Motocross.

The biggest class of the day was the 125cc Novice class. There were spills and plenty of hard fought battles, but Mark Brown of Temple came through to finish first. Eddy Coker of Cameron came from behind to make second followed by David DiCorte of Waco taking third. Brian Parker of Richardson received fourth followed closely by Don Briscoe of Harker Heights who crossed the finish line fifth.

Yoe Sets Pace Over Cougars, 55-30

The Cameron Yoemen added another win in their quest for the district championship by downing Rosebud-Lott, 55-30.

In the first quarter the Yoemen outshot the Cougars 12 to 8 and by intermission the Cougars fell to a 14 point deficit. It was not shooting by the Yoemen in the first half of play as they shot 48 per cent from the field. Once again the height allowed the Yoemen the offensive and defensive rebounds and the Yoemen controlled the game from the beginning.

The high pointer for the Yoemen was split between Gary Hornung and Ronnie Bennett when both laced the rim for 13. Every Yoemen scored from the field in the winning effort.

Kirk Ryan and Ray Rabro were the high point men for the Cougars and were credited with 8 points each.

The Yoemen continued to cause the Cougars costly errors and in the second half the Yoemen sailed high as they brought back their fourth district victory.

The Yoemen blazed the net for 27 points in the second half to the Cougars 16. The Yoemen's percentage in the second half hit the 42 mark. The Yoemen attempted 10 free throw and sank 7. The Cougars went to the free line 10 times and hit 4.

The Yoemen will continue district action this Tuesday night as they will face the Manor Mustangs at home.

In junior varsity action the Yoemen cagers downed the Cougars 68-41. Joe Smith-erman added 16 points to the winning effort and was the high pointer. The JV roundballers stepped to a 20-9 lead at the end of the first quarter, and by the half-time led by a 20 point deficit. Ricky Tewby laced 24 points for the loosing Cougar effort.

In the freshman game the Yoemen cagers led throughout the game to dump the Cougars 58-47. It was Michael Knight who led the scoring for the Yoemen cagers as he sank 23 points. By the half-time intermission the Yoemen had jumped into a 4 point lead over the Cougars. Phil Tindle popped the net for 14 points and was the high pointer for the Cougars. The freshman and junior varsity will hit the hardwood in district action this Tuesday night against Manor.

TEAFF CONVINCED ROYAL:

Baylor's Grant Teaff may have inadvertently enthralled thousands of UT fans. Inadvertently, you know, means the SWC "Coach of the Year" didn't exactly intend to excite those hungry Texas Orange Bloods. But, in running a crashing 10-1 defense at UT, Brother Teaff stalled Royal's Run - Only Wishbone, allowing his Bears to shockingly overcome a 24-7 UT halftime lead and take away the '74 SWC title Texas had all "sauced and blowed."

Baylor's thrilling 34-24 victory apparently caused Royal to seriously question his own stubbornness in refusing to install the forward pass as an integrated part of the UT offense.

Restive Texas fans, happy with Royal but upset with his refusal to refine the passing game, had pleaded in vain for just that change: For 17 years.

Well, old Reverend Teaff may have convinced Darrell in behalf of all those Texas people. First, Royal second-guessed himself publicly for "not throwing sooner" in the Baylor game. But, truth is, Texas' 1974 passing attack was so inept it did not really matter, and DKR knew it.

Auburn, a non-passing team itself, beat Texas, at least partially, by throwing in the Gator Bowl. Texas also partially beat Texas by trying to pass against Auburn. If you have a sick kid, what do you do? Call the doctor. Many shrewd football observers think Darrell Royal called in the right Sawbones in hiring former

San Diego Quarterback and Arkansas Offensive Coach Don Breaux to replace Fred Akers as his offensive back-field coach.

Breaux is the guy who designed and directed the Bill Montgomery-powered Arkansas passing offenses of the late Sixties.

TO PASS ONLY OFFENSE: Is Breaux, coming to UT from Florida, likely to turn the Longhorns into a pass-first offense? Hardly.

But you can bet one thing: He has the skill to improve the Texas passing offense sufficiently to stop Teaff, or anybody else, from employing 10-1, crashing goal-line defenses against the Burnt Orange. All over the field.

Tech got away with that maneuver, as did Baylor. Oklahoma has done it for years. But it apparently took the sting of the second half Baylor collapse to convince the SWC's all-time victory leader there was a better way.

Grant Teaff, you see, is now a big man in both Texas and Baylor camps.

It is going to be interesting.

MILAM AREA PARADE OF SPORTS

The Sage Hens pictured here were taken by Eddie Allison of the Cameron Herald during the two-day seasonal hunt in southeast Idaho near the Wyoming border in September 1974. These hens have a wingspan of about three feet and weigh about three pounds. The colorful birds blend in perfectly with the knee-high sage brush in which they live. They must be flushed from the sage and once on the wing, they are tough to bring down. They are a prize amid the hunting world and provide an extremely tasty dish of hen and dressing if properly prepared.

Shiring Joins 25 Year Club

He transferred to Pittsburgh two years later as senior buyer and to Rockdale in 1973.

The Pittsburgh native secured a bachelor's degree in petroleum engineering from the University of Pittsburgh in 1941 and later studied civil engineering at Carnegie Institute of Technology. From 1943 to 1947, Shiring served in the Navy, attaining the rank of senior lieutenant.

Governor To Recommend Driver Education Program

Governor Dolph Briscoe will recommend an expanded driver education program in his legislative proposals to be presented to the next session of the Texas Legislature.

The plan is one of many, designed by Governor Briscoe, to upgrade and provide the necessary financial support for driver education in the state's high schools.

Recently, the State Board of Education included driver education expansion in one of fourteen propositions for improvement of the school systems.

While many students are participating in the program, thousands of eligible high school pupils are not being reached, primarily because behind-the-wheel instruction requires a laboratory fee of between $40 and $60. Currently, federal funding provides only $10 per student and federal regulations prohibit even this amount of funding beyond June 30, 1975.

Essentially, this means that the student is presently required to pay a large percentage of the fee and will be required to pay 100 percent of the fee after that date.

Often, this prohibits lower-income students from participation in the driver education program. One observer termed the high fees as "discriminatory" to students with a desire to improve themselves despite the lack of money.
